

A gold and enamel candy box.
Late 18th century

Circular box in pink enameled gold. The removable lid is embellished with an intricate starburst pattern, and the body and bottom of the box are decorated with a wave pattern. The translucent enamel leaves the intricate patterns in the gold underneath visible, which also allows for subtle plays of light. The enamel patterns are framed with intertwined friezes that are accented with blue enamel foliage, white enamel beads, and white enamel bands.
