

Pills box in gold and enamel 19th-century.

Small circular box in gold and enamel. The removable lid is decorated with a polychrome enamel miniature depicting a scene inspired by the painter Boucher. A young shepherdess leading her ewes to drink at a fountain is spied by a young man. The entourage of the miniature and the box are adorned with grains of gold. The box and the bottom of the box are decorated with a thin guilloché in parallel streaks and sowing of peas.
