

A mid-19th century gold mounted crystal scent bottle.

A gold mounted crystal scent bottle with pear-shaped body. The flask is set in gold mesh completely pierced. On one side, an oval medallion presents a trophy decoration with "musette," hat and flowered basket in the 18th century taste. On the other side, the decoration presents a finely chiseled ribbon on a floral background. The hinge stopper is topped with a mesh and a gold grain.

The lid opens to reveal a gold stopper on the interior.

The bottle is presented in a "Daux Palais royal 144 Bijoutier" case "Radu's successor, jeweler-jeweler-goldsmith, Palais-Royal, manufactures brilliants, colored stones and bracelets of all kinds, beautiful costume jewelry and all that is most beautiful and finished in this genre." Vever French jewelry in the 19th century (1800-1900), I. Consulate. Empire. Restoration. Louis Philippe

H: 4.48in. (11.4 cm) / L: 1.57in. (4 cm) / l: 0.78in. (2cm).

Weight: 1.97oz (56g).

Gold mark: eagle's head. 18 K.

Mid-19th century.

REF: 5074.

Price: 4200 €