A service in milky-white opaline glass with enameled decoration of polychrome flower bouquets, comprising a jug, a mustard pot, a coffee pot and two salt bowls raised by gold stripes that have suffered some wear. The two "salerons" have Louis XVI silver mounts decorated with openwork festoons, chased with flowers, resting on a base composed of four sabot feet. Work from Central Europe (Bohemia) work.

The stopper on the ewer is not original.
